MISSING MILLIONAIRE.

FUGITIVE SECRETARY REPORTED ARRESTED.

A CANADIAN MYSTERY.

NEW YORK, November 24.

A message from Portland (Oregon) states that Doughty, secretary to the Canadian millionaire theatre proprietor, Mr Ambrose Small, who, with Doughty, mysteriously disappeared, nearly a year ago, has been arrested. He is stated to have confessed that he took $100,000 worth of bonds which were missed when Small disappeared, but denies that he abducted Small.

THE NEW WOMAN.

DECISION OF PARIS.

RETURN TO MEDIEVAL FASHIONS.

Paris has spoken, and the world is changed. We are to have new women. The stature and form of the sex must be transformed. The day of the "petite femme" is at an end, and we are to bow our diminished heads before the "belle dame." Thus romantically Paris reports its decision. We own to some difficulty in relating these fervent phrases to the facts. We speak not to disprove what Paris spoke; but here we are to speak what everybody knows. The age in which we live had not appeared to us the reign of the little woman. Even before "Waas" and land girls, and other Amazons thundered into sight we mingled wonder and fear at the growing magnitude of woman. By taking thought and exercise she had within mortal memory added a cubit to her stature. No more was Rosalind, but just as high as Orlando's heart. She threatened to pat him on the heart. Yet Paris declares that this epoch was really the apotheosis of "la petite femme." The slogan runs thus: "The short skirt is the skirt for a little woman; we have had a period of short skirts, and, therefore, as aforesaid, the little woman has been in power." Threatened skirts live long. Not once not twice in our rough island-story Paris has threatened to extend the skirts of civilisation, and civilisation has shown the dressmakers a clean pair of heels. But we venture on no prophecy. Our little fashions have their day. The best of them cannot be relied to endure. Nor do we contend that every woman is at her best in the exiguous skirt. The infinite variety of the sex forbids that any one costume should be ideal, or even rational. But it is with alarm we read that, in devising the new fashions, the dressmakers have gone to the Middle Ages for their inspiration. That, intellectually, the Middle Ages were coming into fashion again we knew, but an affection for their economics or their ethics or their metaphysics has not hitherto involved an adoption of medieval costume. Whether the notion will command itself to some of our eloquent mediocritists we cannot tell; but Paris should be more precise. The Middle Ages lasted a good many years, and the dressmakers then were no more constant to one love than they are now. If Paris were to urge a revival of Victorian costume we should want to know whether the crinoline was intended, or merely the bustle. In the early Middle Ages the lady of fashion wore what may be most lucidly described as a loose and flowing nightgown. The march of ideas transformed this, first, into something more like a dressing gown, and then into a clinging garment veiled in something looser. We will not continue. When the Middle Ages ended is a matter of bitter controversy among historians, and we are not prepared to accept the decision of the dressmakers. But we feel that women would like to know, for example, whether they are to put their hair up, or wear it in two plait, or crown it with a wimple. We commend to the attention of Paris the schedule of the wardrobe of the Wife of Bath, whose shoes were moist and new, whose hose of scarlet red, whose hat as broad as a buckler, and who, "on a Sunday," were upon her head a wimple which the poet swears, weighed full ten pounds.

It appears perfectly obvious that the man who ever may be works entirely on his own and has no accomplices. It seems highly probable that he first carefully watches a bungalow upon which he has designs, ascertains the normal habits of the occupants and the lay out of the bungalow itself. He then chooses a night for his nocturnal call and waits until a Police patrol has paid the bungalow a visit and has passed on. Then is his moment for action. Without the slightest trouble he slips in through an open window, visits the bed-rooms of the occupants, carries off all the small portable articles he can find and then departs.

The use to which he puts the "Aklin cartridges"—one of which he left behind on the occasion of his recent visit to a General's House—is obvious. The cartridges are normally used by sufferers from insomnia in order to induce sleep. As has been already mentioned, they enclose two small glass tubes, one of which contains chloroform and the other some other drug. A slight pressure applied in a certain way is sufficient to break the tube and release the chloroform. The burglar then gently waves the cartridge beneath the nose of his victim. A heavy sleep is thus induced and the burglar is left free to carry out his search without fear of interruption.

How the man succeeds in dodging the Police patrols and how he disposes of the stolen property are mysteries which remain to be solved.

As residents know quite well Colombo is very thoroughly patrolled at night and it is difficult to move abroad after 1.30 a.m. without being stopped and cross-examined by the Police. How this particular man has been able so long to evade the patrols is a question which gives rise to various theories.

Another point of considerable interest is that none of the articles stolen by this particular burglar ever seems to be traced although the Ceylon Police are ordinarily quite successful in this direction.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"

HONGKONG, TUESDAY, Nov. 30, 1920.

THE LESSON OF MATLOCK.

It is too soon yet to guess what response the appeal to the public for subscriptions for a war memorial is going to get. The site chosen by the gentlemen who settle such things for us is not a popular choice, and the long delay must have considerably diluted any public enthusiasm there may have been. Quite recently we have had in the Press a suggestion that while widows and orphans of fighting men, and also incapacitated fighting men, are very badly off, we should not waste money on such a useless memorial. Incidentally, a curious lesson comes to us from Matlock. The District Council there on August 24 decided to hide from sight for five years all German gun trophies, with the idea of allowing time for public opinion to soften. This suggestion came first from the local Ex-Soldiers' Union. It does seem of some importance that we should know the ideas of such things entertained by our ex-soldiers, now fairly well represented in Hongkong, yet we do not believe their opinion has been really sought. They could, of course, have attended the meeting at which the cut-and-dried scheme was presented for acceptance: but that is hardly the same thing. They could also have written to the papers, if they had felt very strongly about it, and had the exvery reluctantly and very dolefully, as users of the pen, we feel obliged to deny him that. The public mind is like the wet sand by the sea. It may be written upon, but the writings are soon effaced. But the physical instincts and timidities are always alert and active, and will respect real power and obey it. It is only men with "unconquerable souls" who can be conquered by the pen but not by the sword, and such men are few.

ST. ANDREW:

Sir Walter in the poem called "Marston" had this stanza: But I have solemn vows to pay To far St. Andrew's bound; Within the ocean cave to pray Where good St. Rule his holy ley Sung to the billows' sound. St. Rule was the real patron saint of Scotland until the interloping Andras filched the job. Rule was a monk of Patras in Achaea, where the Greek currants come from. This monk was the first to colonise its metropolitan sea and to convert the inhabitants in the year 310, according to the worthy Dr. Brewer. But the dates don't tally at all, and scholars have suggested that some carousing was done to make the church at St. Andrews seem more ancient than it was. The Scots have regarded Andrew as their patron saint since the middle of the 8th century. The only historical Regulus for St. Rule was an Irish monk who dates back c. 573-600. The pretty legend about Andrew modestly desiring to be crucified on a different cross to the cross is scouted by Dr. Brewer, who says it was of the ordinary shape. If we may believe the relic in the crypt of St. Victor, near Marseilles, the error rose from the way in which that cross is exhibited, resting on the end of the cross beam and point of the foot. Still more dubious than the various relics of this cross (for there are enough others to make many duplicates) are the relics of the Saint himself, which were supposed, according to Andrew Lang, to be in the collection of Acva the bishop of Hesychia, and by him taken into Scotland in 732. As relics of the brother of Simon Peter still remain in Russia, in various places in Russia, he seems to have had a more complicated skeleton than ordinary man. According to the Encyclopaedia, "almost the whole activity of St. Andrews in Fifeshire is centred in education, and golf," and some folk will be astonished that education should be mentioned first. The old church in 1656 was in such disrepair that the level-headed town councillors ordered its materials to be used for repairing the pier. Nothing of all this can make St. Andrew's hall less popular, and that's all that matters.

Yesterday evening while Mr. Hurley was sitting in a chair outside the door of his house, No. 3, Moreton Terrace, Causeway Bay, a passing Chinese unexpectedly threw a packet of paper in his face and before he could recover stole a season ticket from his pocket and made off.

To-day, St. Andrew's, is being observed at St. John's Cathedral as a day of continuous prayer for missions, some fifty persons having undertaken to spend a quarter of an hour or longer in the Cathedral in prayer for the evangelisation of the world. Tomorrow, Wednesday, there is to be a missional intercession service at 6.30 with an address.

The Central Council of St. Vincent de Paul acknowledge with grateful thanks receipt of the following donations towards the fund of their "Al Fresco Fete" on December 5, 1920: Hon. Mr. Ho Yohock, $25; Hon. Mr. Ho Fook, $25; Mrs. N. J. Stabb, $25; Mrs. F. A. Gomes, $25; Mr. Ho Koon Tong, $25; and Major-General F. Ventris, $10.

Japanese competition in the pottery trade is having the effect in overseas countries of cutting out lower grade English goods. In the home market Japanese goods are more and more in evidence, though they are limited in range, comprising, for the most part, low grade and moderate grade fancy goods and low class utility wares. The competition of these Japanese decorative wares contributes in a measure to the slump in the English fancy trade; but the Japanese articles are not everybody's goods. Moreover, the middleman has been getting such a profit that he is killing the trade.

In consequence of the increasing depression in shipping, the number of unemployed seamen in Japan is increasing rapidly, a return completed by a certain company stating that of a total of more than 62,000 seamen, 3,400 have no means of livelihood. In September of last year, when trade was booming, there were far more jobs than there were men to fill them, but now the situation is quite the reverse, there being only 200 vacancies against 500 applications. Fears are felt among Japanese seamen, lest they should be put out of employment, as there are indications that some shipowners will hire Chinese workpeople.

PEN VERSUS SWORD.

According to the latest Yellow Dragon, the Queen's College magazine, 22 of the boys of the debating society "decided" that the pen is mightier than the sword. We would have sided with the 12 who voted to the contrary. The adage is characterised more by good intention than by adherence to fact.

The pen ought to be mightier than the sword, theoretically, but in practice it is not. The pen may stir a large number of people up to share an identical emotion, but it cannot make them retain it. It is easier to forget what the pen says than what the sword says.

The pen may say a good thing, that inspires the reader with a good resolution. It can say the same thing so often that the man gets bored, and reacts against his former sentiment. The argument of the sword will not only form the good resolution, but it will make the man stick to it and act on it.

The pen may write the order "Quick march," and the reader may say, "Very true. Very sound! But I am too tired today." The point of the sword properly applied will make him forget his tiredness. In politics no one seriously believes that the pen is mightier than the sword. They argue with their pens for a while, because they have all got the idea that the pen ought to be powerful, but as soon as the issue becomes serious, and a settlement necessary, they all resort to the sword.

The produce of the pen may be a "scrap of paper"; the effect of the sword that succeeds is obedience. Human forgetfulness is the secret of the pen's power. Though it write the most moving words, the people forget. Leung Cheung-ling held that the pen can "conquer the minds of the people and have long lasting conquests."

HONGKONG'S HEALTH.

CHOLERA CASE REPORTED.

Last week's fine spell of good health enjoyed by Hongkong last week when, apart from six Chinese deaths from influenza (not notifiable), only one case of communicable disease—a Chinese with diphtheria—was reported, was suddenly broken yesterday when one fatal case of cholera (imposed) and one fatal case of cerebrospinal fever and one case of peritonitis fever, and all three Chinese, together with one case of diphtheria.

They could also have written to the papers, if they had felt very strongly about it, and had the ex-

For the Poor.

STREET SALE OF ROSES.

BIG "DRIVE" TO-MORROW.

There is to be a street sale of roses to-morrow in aid of the funds of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. It is to be hoped that the "drive" will prove a successful one, for the report for the first ten months of 1920, which we published last week, was a record of work among the poor of this Colony of which the Society may well feel proud, and on the strength of which it may with every confidence appeal to the generous and charitable public of this Colony. From January to October, not less than $5,570 was spent on food, clothing and rent, the most of it in the very poor district of Wan Chai; while during the same months over $4,500 was expended on the education of the children of the poor—in Chinese, English, stenography, and typewriting. Of this sum $1,022 was devoted to the support of deserving vernacular schools in Hongkong and Yau Ma Tei. The monthly expenditure of the Society is now over $1,000. The net proceeds of last year's bazaar amounted to $12,400, and the total receipts from all sources to $14,600; yet the estimated balance for the 31st December of this year is only $695. The Society is, therefore, in urgent need of support, and it is to be hoped that to-morrow's sale of flowers and next Sunday's bazaar will provide it with sufficient funds to carry on its splendid work of charity during the coming year.

CHILD THIEF.

JAIL AND BATTAN.

NAUGHTY BOY WHO WOULDN'T WORK.

A small boy who was this morning charged before Magistrate Orme with picking the pocket of a yokel in Yau Ma Tei yesterday afternoon and stealing 40 cents admitted the offence.

Inspector Ong said that Inspector Witchell of the Sanitary Board saw the theft and arrested the defendant. The defendant, he said, had never been to jail before, but he had often been brought to the station. He was well known in the village as a little thief, and every time the villagers saw him, they chased him away.

The Magistrate: Has he got no parents?—Yes. But—

The Magistrate: They have given him up as a bad job, I suppose?—Yes.

The boy's father told the Magistrate that he had often whipped the boy for refusing to work, but to no avail.

The Magistrate: You had better take him back to the country before he is banished. Three months' hard labour and 12 strokes.

The boy's father told the Magistrate that the boy had been banished for a week.

AN ARTIST IN CHINA.GEORGE CHINNERY'S WORK.*SCENES IN MACAO AND CANTON.

Invariably interesting, both to the art student and to the general reader, the latest number of The Studio to hand is of particular local interest owing to an article by James Orange dealing with the Chinese period in the life and work of George Chinnery, R.H.A.

George Chinnery was born in London on January 5, 1774; began to exhibit at the Royal Academy in 1791; practised in Dublin from 1797 to 1802 (married in 1799); and proceeded to Madras in 1802. Leaving Madras in 1807, he went to Calcutta, where he remained until 1825, when he sailed for China. Soon after his arrival in Macao his wife threatened to join him so he removed to Canton, as he remarked, "Now I am all right." What a kind providence is this! Chinese government that it forbids the softer sex from coming and bothering us here!" After about two years in Canton he returned residence in Macao, living in the same house until he died on May 30, 1852.

The article, which is generously illustrated with fine reproductions, both in colour and black and white, observes that Chinnery could have made a large fortune if he had not been possessed of the eccentricity of genius and of so restless a character. It was rare for him to complete a picture. In China he entered into a society which was not artistic, and his life was a constant financial struggle, yet on the whole a happy one. Contemporary writers speak of his charming and genial disposition and of the affection in which he was held.

Chinnery's work in China has a certain monotony, for he painted the same individuals and the same scenes and types of Chinese life many times, albeit with some difference in detail. His best work is probably to be found in charming scenes of Chinese life, for his great delight was in sketching; every morning of fine weather attracted him out at dawn, and his vigorous sketches in both pen and ink and pencil are masterly drawings. Some of his portraits in oil (several of which are reproduced in The Studio) are remarkably good, though it is said, not always faithful likenesses, while others are painted without any artistic effort and most probably to produce the money required at the moment. His landscapes and small marine views are especially attractive, whether in oil or water-colour. A favourite subject was the sampan girl or boat woman with the black trousers, blue tunic, and red kerchief over the head.

Most principals of firms in China during 1825-52 obtained from him portraits of themselves and friends, and pictures of Chinese life; most of these are now in Europe or America and very few are to be found in China. It was a fashion thirty or forty years ago among old firms to possess a Chinnery like a piece of plate or old furniture. Sir Robert Buchanan Jardine, Bart., has about forty of Chinnery's pictures, principally oils, portraits, and scenes of India and China, including an admirable portrait of Mr. William Jardine, founder of the China firm of Jardine, Matheson and Co., Major Henry Keswick has eighteen Chinese pictures, besides Indian scenes and an interesting volume of sketches by Chinnery. Some of the pictures were loaned by his father, Mr. William Keswick, to an exhibition held in Hongkong in 1867. Mr. J. J. Keswick, Mrs. Morris, Messrs. John Bell Irving and John Johnston (all connected with the firm of Jardine, Matheson and Co.) possess several fine examples of the painter's art. The Dr. George Morrison Library, now owned by Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, Tokyo, includes two volumes of U.S.A. "Wilmington" who were last week remanded on charges of assaulting a Chinese motor car driver employed by the Palace Garage, and refusing to pay for the hire of the car which took them to the Taikoo Docks. The Magistrate said that there was no doubt in his mind that the defendants had enraged the complainant's car, and that they had not paid for the car beforehand. They might not have remembered what happened if they had had a sociable night together. Each defendant was fined $20, half of the fines to be paid to the garage.

Some personal recollections of Anders Zorn, "The Etchings and Dry-Points of George Soper R.E.," by Malcolm C. Salaman, and "Studio Talk," written by correspondents from all the important art centres, complete a most interesting number replete with beautiful illustrations covering a wide variety of art.

MURDER CHARGE.OLD MAN KILLED.*ALLEGED HIRED ASSASSINS.

Before Magistrate Orme this morning Inspector Ogg charged a respectfully dressed Chinese with the murder, on September 16, in company with another man not in custody, of a Chinese living in Yamenai.

The defendant denied the charge. The Inspector said that the deceased, who was an old man, had carried on business as a contractor in Yamenai. He was known to be recruiting for the Kwongtung Army, and was murdered outside the door of his house by Kwongtung men in the pay of the Kwongtung Army. The defendant who was arrested a couple of days ago was identified by the deceased's wife as having taken part in the stabbing affray. The Inspector said that he was not prepared to proceed with the case, and asked for a week's remand, which was granted.

CHALLENGE TO DEMPSEY.CINEMA STAR'S AMBITION.*STRONG MAN OF LOS ANGELES.

Jack Hoxie, the movie star, has issued a challenge to Jack Dempsey for the World's Heavy-weight Championship. He has been training in Los Angeles for the past three months getting himself into physical condition to box Champion Jack Dempsey.

Jack Hoxie is playing the lead in a serial now being produced in Los Angeles and during his spare moments he keeps himself in perfect physical condition by sparring six-round bouts with his trainers. He is one of the cleverest men with the gloves in the moving picture colony in Los Angeles and his friends state that he is convinced that he can beat Jack Dempsey.

With everything in his favour including youth, strength and a wonderful constitution, Jack Hoxie has been preparing himself for a championship battle by fighting some of the heavy-weight fighters on the coast. He has also been preparing himself to withstand a beating by doing many clever stunts that are required of him in the filming of his serial picture, "Lightning Boy." In this serial he is required to fall off a cliff, be dragged, tied to a run away horse, through the woods, beaten into insensibility by thugs and many of the other stunts that are usually seen in serials.

FOOTBALL.

SHAMSEEN LEAGUE.

There was a large gathering of Service men present on the Naval Dockyard ground yesterday afternoon to watch an interesting match in connection with the Shamseens Football League, between teams representing the "Tarantula" and the "Moorhen." This is the second match in the above league to be played in Hongkong. The match was very even throughout, and the excitement was great as each set of forwards broke away. It will be remembered that in a previous meeting some days ago, the "Moorhen" defeated the "Tarantula" by the only goal of the match. The "Moorhen" was expected to repeat their performance on this occasion, but the "Tarantula" were out to revenge their defeat, and although they did not succeed in doing this, they had the satisfaction of effecting a draw.

In justice to the "Moorhen" it must be said that they played with a handicap yesterday—three of their usual players being on the sick list—and perhaps this might explain their inability to inflict a second defeat on their rivals. Owing to the recent rain, the ground was none too nice for "footer." Nevertheless, the game was as fast as could be expected. The "Tarantula" kicked off but did not go far before they were robbed, and the "Moorhen" were soon on the war path. They took the ball to the enemy territory and kept it there, giving the defence an anxious time. Several metres in front of goal saw the "Tarantula" citadel miss down by a hair's breadth. After ten minutes of play, during the whole of which time the "Moorhen" was pressing, Bennett received a well timed pass from Alison and netted the ball with a swift ground shot which gave the goalie no chance. The game evened up after this but no more goals were scored in the first half, and when the half-time whistle came, the "Moorhen" led by one goal to nil.

Play was as fast as ever in the second moiety, with both teams playing their best, and for a good while the game developed into a ding-dong struggle in midfield, with neither set of forwards able to make much headway. About half way through this half the "Tarantula" got away and forced a "meter" in front of the "Moorhen" goal. The struggle was keen, and in the excitement, Grayland had the misfortune to put the ball into his own goal, thus giving the "Tarantula" their equalizer. The "Tarantula" livened up after this, and showing superior form, were all out for a winning goal, but the defence was playing as sound a game as ever and did not let anything past them. Bachelor in particular, played a sterling game and on many occasions saved his side from almost certain defeat by his cool and accurate tackles. The final whistle came with the score sheet reading one goal all.

The teams were:

Tarantula—Lieut. Farquharson; W. Golder, W. Brown; Cooper, Freak, Randall; Campbell, Loan, Cowie, G. Brown and Allen.

Moorhen—Braham; Batchelor, Grayland; Tarbuck, Powell, Mayman; Bennett, Lieut. Mainwaring, Allison, Ward and Pook.

Mr. Wells refereed.
